Savings Rate To Rise

OTTAWA (CP)—Interest rates on some $8,000,000 Canadian bank savings deposits will climb to 2 per cent on December 1, first change from the current 1½ per cent in 17 years.

The Canadian Bankers' Association announced the increase in Montreal Thursday and said it is "in line with the general firming of money rates."

"The increase is being put into effect so that the rate on personal savings accounts will reflect more accurately the general level of interest rates," it said.

Experts here said the boost, affecting more than $5,000,000,000 in chartered bank deposits, reflects heavier demands and greater earning power of bank loans.

The boost, lifting the rate to the 1936 level, is planned also to reduce the gap between the current 1½ per cent offered by the banks and the 3½ per cent Canadians can get through purchase of Canada Savings Bonds.

Many Canadians are believed to have withdrawn money accumulating in savings accounts to purchase the bonds, though figures on this move are not available.

Generally, however, savings deposits have increased over the years reaching about $5,200,000,000 on September 20, a jump of more than $3,000,000,000 in the past year.

Aside from needed reserves, the banks put this money to work either through investment in various securities or through commercial loans.

With the economy expanding, demand for these loans—bearing interest of between 4½ and 6 per cent—has been increasing. Bank loans currently total about $3,800,000,000—a fourfold expansion from about $980,000,000 in 1943.

Bank assets have doubled to $10,400,000,000 from $5,264,000,000.

Bermuda's Royal Visitors

Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh leave Bermuda's Parliament after the Queen addressed the legislative body, the first time a reigning British monarch had done so. Lieut.-Gen. Sir Alexander Hood, governor-general of Britain's oldest self-governing colony, accompanies the Royal couple, who are making a six-month, 30,000-mile Commonwealth tour. The Queen is wearing a blue dress, and Philip is dressed in a white admiral's uniform. (International Soundphoto.)

Elizabeth Serenaded With Calypso Songs

KINGSTON, Jamaica (CP)—The sound of joyful Calypso songs, sung by thousands of celebrating Jamaicans, filtered into the House of Representatives here Thursday as the Queen became the first reigning British monarch to address the colony's legislative council.

Four huge fans tried without success to dispel the heat in the assembly hall as the Queen spoke of the "bonds of human friendship and the unity which comes from sharing the same heritage and aspirations and the same loyalty."

The Queen, in contrast to many members and their wives, seemed cool in a short-sleeved green dress and hat, white gloves and shoes as she addressed the chamber. Her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, sat nearby, dressed in the white naval uniform of an admiral of the fleet, with the star and sash of the Order of the Garter.

The Queen spoke of the "wonderful welcome she and the duke have received in two days here in Jamaica, second stop on their six-month global tour."

She said: "What I have seen has more than fulfilled my expectations but I have learned too of your problems and I know of the efforts you are making to overcome them."

Tens of thousands of Jamaicans converged on Kingston to catch a glimpse of the Royal pair.

A hot tropical sun beat down on the crowded streets as police tried to clear the way for cars and buses bearing officials labels.

Everywhere the Royal couple went there were crowds of gaily dressed Jamaicans lining the route 10 deep or more, dancing, singing Calypsos, waving and yelling as the Queen lowered her parasol so they could get a better view of her.

Russia Agrees To Conference

MOSCOW (CP)—The Soviet Union, in a move that surprised the West, announced tersely Thursday it is prepared to meet Britain, the United States and France in a four-power conference.

Its statement of fewer than 60 words did not say what subjects might be taken up or at how high a personality level the parley might be.

Details were promised in the next text of a note to the three Western powers which will be published in Moscow Saturday.

The bare preliminary announcement was a communiqué circulated by the Soviet news agency Tass, broadcast by Moscow radio and published by the government newspaper Izvestia.

The announcement of Soviet readiness to meet with the western powers came amid preparations in the West for top-level meetings of Prime Minister Churchill, President Eisenhower and French Premier Joseph Laniel in Bermuda starting December 4.

The Moscow announcement came as a surprise. First it was heard on the Moscow radio by monitors in London. The French foreign office immediately said that was the first word it had, although such announcements usually come to Paris first through the French embassy in Moscow.

West German and Allied officials in Bonn scheduled emergency conferences for today to discuss the implications of the Russian note.

The communiqué was published under the headline: "On the participation of the USSR in a four power conference."

Married to Former Secretary

Missing Man Located after 22 Years

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A Nashville man who was believed incapable of earning his own living outside his wealthy family's insurance business disappeared in the depths of the depression 22 years ago.

Two days later, his will arrived by mail, postmarked in St. Louis.

Six weeks later the pretty Kentucky girl who had once been his secretary also vanished.

Both Thomas C. Buntin, then 28, and Betty McCuddy, 22, were from well-to-do families but they apparently left with only pocket change and the clothes on their backs.

After eleven years, when suit was brought to collect on two $25,000 New York Life Insurance Co. policies on Buntin's life, the late Chief Justice Gratton Green of Tennessee's supreme court affirmed a lower court finding that Buntin was legally dead.

The insurance company paid off, but still was not convinced Buntin was dead. Albert M. Alexander, who had the assignment to find Buntin, kept the case in his active file.

After another decade of patient tracking, Alexander finally spotted the protruding left ear which showed so plainly in Buntin's picture. Another six months of careful double-checking followed before the company sued for recovery of $31,000 of the insurance fund.

The company said only that it had found Buntin, that he was married, and that he admitted his identity.

Reporters from the Nashville Tennesseean tracked him down in Orange, Texas.

The middle-aged couple known as Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Palmer admitted they were Buntin and Miss McCuddy.

Mr. and Mrs. Palmer, 50 and 44, the parents of four daughters and two sons, are "highly respected citizens of Orange," the Orange Leader said.

A policeman was sent to their home at the request of Governor Allan Shivers of Texas, who had been asked by Governor Frank Clements of Tennessee to get official confirmation of the couple's identity.

The Tennesseean, in a copy-right story, said Buntin left a wife and three sons in Nashville. His wife now is married to Louise Phillips, president of the Broadway National Bank of Nashville.

Strike Parley Asked

VANCOUVER (CP)—Southern Interior lumber operators Thursday offered to meet union officials in an effort to find a solution to the two-month-old woodworkers' strike.

The offer was made through the B.C. Labor Relations Board and came as the International Woodworkers of America (CIO-CCL) announced plans to set up a labor blockade throughout the Interior to discourage workers from accepting employment in struck mills.

No date for a meeting has been set and there was no immediate comment from the IWA.

Both northern and southern Interior operators met with Premier Bennett Wednesday at Victoria in the latest of a series of meetings aimed at seeking a break in the deadlock over union demands for an 18-cent-an-hour wage boost. Present basic wage is 12.5¢.

Another meeting is scheduled in Victoria next Wednesday.

One Attack Could Be Crippling

OTTAWA (CP)—Defense Minister Claxton said Thursday that Russia some day may be in a position to deliver an attack so devastating as to cripple seriously North American military strength, actual and potential.

He said—in the Commons that as yet no means has been devised to guarantee that every attacking airplane would be stopped short of its target. Some probably would get through.

Even if such a foolproof air defense system were technically possible, the combined resources of Canada and the United States would not be enough to pay for it, he said. It now is a case of taking care of the most urgent matters first, he added.

He outlined what Canada and the United States are doing to protect the continent from attack and said the two countries are in general agreement.

"The government and armed forces of the United States have been continuously associated with us" in the planning and implementation of continental defense, he said.

He said joint efforts of Canada and the U.S. have been spurred by the intelligence that the Russians had exploded an atom bomb. Russian production of long-range bombers and still more destructive bombs increased the threat to North America, he said.

In time it might become possible to deliver so devastating an attack on this continent as seriously to cripple its military and industrial strength, actual and potential."

Minister May Quit

BY T. A. MYERS
Colonist Legislative Reporter

The government will not stage another by-election in a renewed attempt to win a legislative seat for Finance Minister Einar Gunderson.

This was indicated by a cabinet source Thursday night, soon after Mr. Gunderson was officially declared a loser in Tuesday's by-election.

A recheck of all ballots cast in Tuesday's voting and a count of absentee and hospital patients' votes ended Mr. Gunderson's hope of overtaking Liberal winner George Gregory.

The hospital and absentee votes, counted for the first time, made no appreciable change in the situation. Mr. Gunderson made a net gain of three votes in the day's counting but the final official totals left him still 93 votes behind Mr. Gregory.

"Mr. Gunderson phoned to congratulate me," Mr. Gregory said after he had been declared the victor. "I hope I can do as good a job as he would have done if he had been elected."

NO NEW RECOUNT

The cabinet source said Mr. Gunderson would not now ask for a judicial recount. This earlier had been a possibility.

In order to have a recount, Mr. Gunderson would have to show a County Court judge that there was reason to believe some ballots had been improperly counted or rejected.

Yesterday's recheck was conducted under the watchful eyes of Social Credit and Liberal scrutineers, so there is little chance ballots were miscounted. And since only 113 votes out of more than 20,000 were ruled spoiled, Mr. Gunderson would have little hope of winning even if a judicial recount were allowed and all spoiled ballots declared valid.

He outlined what Canada and the United States are doing to protect the continent from attack and said the two countries are in general agreement.

"The government and armed forces of the United States have been continuously associated with us" in the planning and implementation of continental defense, he said.

He said joint efforts of Canada and the U.S. have been spurred by the intelligence that the Russians had exploded an atom bomb. Russian production of long-range bombers and still more destructive bombs increased the threat to North America, he said.

The civic election got underway last night featuring a few new voices, many of the same old issues, the Point Ellice Bridge and Joe North.

The annual reunion of characters and candidates was held in Victoria West Community Hall with the thunderous voice of chairman Arthur Bishop calling the tune.

FIFTY PRESENT

About 50 persons showed up, many of them Victoria West residents, to cast critical eyes over the line-up of civic aspirants and hear them trade blows.

It will not come until after December 14, the date on which Premier Bennett and Mr. Gunderson are scheduled to meet the federal cabinet to ask for more money for B.C.'s major roads, the PGE, and forest protection.

Mr. North was unusually quiet throughout and confined his "remarks" to a few disapproving grunts. At one point he told Capt. D. J. Proudfoot to "sit down, you're rocking the boat." He cracked heartily at most of the discussion, but had little to add to it.

The generally light-hearted air of the meeting disappeared only twice—when Frank Partridge and several friends put aldermanic candidate Elgin Neish on the spot regarding his political beliefs.

HIS OWN BUSINESS

Mr. Neish was first asked directly if he was a member of the LPP party. He replied that civic elections were supposed to be non-partisan and that his political beliefs were his "own business."

Mr. Partridge then asked him what his property qualifications were. He said he owned property on Oak Bay Avenue.

"Is that not the LPP headquarters?" he was asked. He said he rented it and had no control over what it was used for.

He spoke English, and answered Nixon's questions.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

An army of compound words is marching into popular speech:

"Motel" was one of the earliest invaders. I can remember (not many years ago) when motorists stayed the night in an "auto camp." Then the owners of the auto camps got fancy ideas and started talking about "auto courts" and "motor courts."

Motel, a word of mixed parentage, by motor out-proved strong and healthy enough to outlive many a word of pure blood-lines, even though it never quite achieved mention in the Who's Who of words, the dictionary.

The other day I saw an old-fashioned sign that said, simply "Auto Camp," and it made me feel quite nostalgic.

When a term was sought to describe the blend of smoke and fog that plagues cities, some clever wordsmith came up with "smog." This word has invaded Webster.

Lately the word "smaze" has been in the news. It signifies a sort of smoke and haze cocktail that has been flowing across the eastern seaboard of North America.

Some Northern Ontario lakes have now been stocked with a new fish—a cross between a lake trout and a speckled trout. They call it a "splake."

Mixing the breed of fish may be a fine thing, and very beneficial to anglers. I am not so sure about mixing the breed of words. If someone told me that the fish in my basket was called a "splake," I think I would throw it back on the strength of its name.

"Splake" sounds more like an insect parasite than a fish.

When a cross between a raspberry and a blackberry was found in the garden of Judge J. H. Logan in Santa Cruz, California, in 1881, the idea of mating words to form other words had not yet been put forward thank goodness.

So the new fruit was christened "loganberry" instead of "blasperry" or "racksonberry."

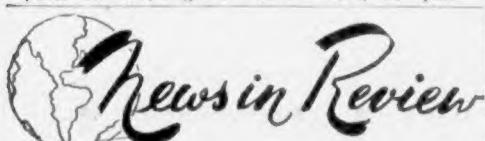

Motel and smog are fairly respectable hybrids, showing some of the features of both parents, like children who have their mother's eyes and their father's temper.

But "smaze" is a feeble infant. Its awkwardness raises the suspicion that its mother and father were first cousins, and perhaps were not even properly married in the first place.

New words are bound to arise to describe new situations, and if they are vivid and apt, they will live. But we should keep a close check on the coiners of words, to prevent them making a hash of our language.

If the latest process of word-making goes to the limit, we may eventually have words that blend completely opposite qualities.

Mixed sunshine and rain could be described as "grunshine" or "sain"—a ho-ho-to-an-indecisive-weather prophet. The current state of world affairs, neither peace nor war, might be called "weace," or "par."

Combine Continuing, MacInnis Suggests

OTTAWA (CP)—A CCF member of Parliament said Thursday in the Commons that certain western bakers convicted of operating a combine in 1951 may still be following the "same procedure."

Angus MacInnis (CCF-Vancouver Kingsway) also said that the $170,000 fine imposed recently on several rubber companies conducted an illegal combine for 15 years. He said he does "not know of any hold-up man who has been able to carry on that long without a conviction."

Mr. MacInnis said the rubber companies conducted an illegal combine for 15 years. He said he does "not know of any hold-up man who has been able to carry on that long without a conviction."

The special Crown prosecution estimated that the rubber companies illegally extracted $1300,000 a year for 15 years, Mr. MacInnis said. The total illegally extracted was $19,500,000.

The fine was all that could be imposed under the law.

Oddities

VANCOUVER (CP)—With the Grey Cup football classic drawing night, even Vancouver's underworld is adapting its techniques to conform.

Police warned shopkeepers of a pair of thieves who operate in this fashion.

One shops for groceries and hands the cashier a $10 bill in payment, then drifts over to ward right tackle so she has to turn her back on the second man, who snatches the bills from the till. Then the first man runs interference and they go for a score. So far, the system has worked successfully in several attempts.

Battle of Trafalgar Won by Starlings

LONDON (AP)—The government Thursday officially surrendered Trafalgar Square in the heart of London to the starlings.

Labour MP Norman Dodds asked in the Commons how many of the thousands of starlings that swoop around Nelson's column had been caught in an eradication campaign.

Somberly G. R. H. Nugent, parliamentary secretary to the agriculture ministry, replied:

"The attempts made last winter to catch starlings in cages at their roosting places was unsuccessful. The cost was about £200. No further action in this matter

Dodds asked amid laughter if this was a "humiliating confession of failure in the Battle of Trafalgar."

Laniel Regime Stakes Life On Vote Today

PARIS (Reuters)—France Thursday night was at a political crossroads. A fateful vote to be taken in parliament today will either:

Confirm the administration of Premier Joseph Laniel in office and pledge the nation to work for the plan for a united international army of West Europe or:

Leave the country without a government for the 20th time since the war and finally settle the six-nation European army plan.

The vote will follow the lengthy foreign affairs debate which ended Wednesday. Laniel then declared he would frame a motion backing the European Defense Community plan and make it a matter of confidence — meaning defeat would force his resignation.

Sound Advice for Everyone

A LONG-SILENT and more understandable Mr. Gardiner advised Canadian farmers this week "to go out and produce what you are best able to produce." The federal minister of agriculture was addressing a closing rally at the federal-provincial convention on agriculture, where growers and other organizations had argued in favor of fresh crown subsidies, crop limitation and other devices to maintain farm prices. Time was when Mr. Gardiner might have been expected to rise to that stimulus, but apparently the government's experience in backing perishable food stocks has been absorbed.

There will be no additional federal subsidies on farm products, said Mr. Gardiner flatly. The best advice he could give the farmers of Canada was that its members should go ahead and produce what they were best able to produce, without dependence on state assistance.

Although it has taken a long time for the administration to arrive at that con-cclusion, by way of butter, beef, pork and other guarantees which have proved uniformly costly to the taxpayers, it would seem as if the day has come at last. To hear Mr. Gardiner using Thomas Carlyle's famous exhortation, even though perhaps unconsciously, is certainly one complete cycle in government thinking on the issue of food and food surpluses.

The same advice could have a far wider application than the one Mr. Gardiner gave it in this instance. Carlyle taught that each individual had something he could do, perhaps better than another, and that his work was not done until he had made that contribution to his fellow men. "Out with it," Carlyle urged, "Produce!" It is not only the Canadian farmer, having a difficult enough time in a period of market readjustment, but every other citizen who can benefit from the advice. No nation, no group, no individual could ever be the poorer for getting on with the job they have learned best how to do.

A Weak Surrender

IN what many people will regard as a weak surrender to what one Liberal MP termed nothing less than blackmail the federal government has agreed to let American anti-Communist probers interview Igor Gouzenko. This follows immediately on a vicious smear campaign that attempted to link one of its ministers, Mr. Lester Pearson, with Communist espionage in North America, something that is offensive to this nation.

The St. Laurent regime should have had a stiffer backbone. It had already declared that all relevant information in the possession of Mr. Gouzenko had been passed on to Washington; also once before he had talked in secret to a U.S. Senate sub-committee and added nothing new to what was previously known. Loyalty to Mr. Pearson alone in view of the attacks made on him should have prevented the federal cabinet from reversing its stand.

Admittedly a compromise has been offered. Gouzenko must agree to the interview—he has done so—it must be held under Canadian auspices, presumably in Canada, and Canada must approve any testimony published afterwards. This latter provision has raised another American dissident. The U.S. Senate chairman concerned wants to be able to pass on the results of the proposed secret meeting to Congress, which means in effect to all the witch-hunters lately in full cry after Mr. Pearson.

Thereafter, if precedent be any guide, there would be the usual irresponsible distortion, loose bandying of names and accusations, and another welter of hysteria. One trusts the federal government does not bow once more to American demands. It should have the dignity to stick to its position and not back down a second time.

An Affront to Her Majesty

ALL Canadians who respect the canons of good behavior and common courtesy will deplore the disgraceful exhibition of bad manners with which Her Majesty the Queen was greeted at Gander airport. The aircraft in which the royal party was journeying to Jamaica touched down there to refuel at 3 o'clock in the morning. At that hour of the day no one—either queen nor commoner—should be asked to make a public appearance, certainly not a young woman faced with a schedule of engagements which would keep her occupied until late that night. That, however, is what bystanders, at Gander demanded, in a shameful display of rudeness and disrepect.

The offense to the Queen is all the more contemptible because of the fact that Her Majesty had specifically requested in advance that her brief stop at Gander should be allowed to pass unnoticed. A message from Buckingham Palace to the Department of State at Ottawa on November 3 stated: "Her Majesty hopes that this will be regarded by the Canadian government purely as a transit stop, and that no form of welcome, formal or informal, will be extended because of the time of day and the shortness of the stop."

Yet despite that politely phrased plea, which the government publicized throughout the country, a crowd stormed the airport and at the unearthly hour of 3 a.m. yelled: "It's time to get up!" and "We want the Queen." They kept this up until the din awakened the Queen from the slumber she so sorely needed to prepare her for an exhausting day and induced her to dress and make an appearance at the doors of the aircraft.

Officials responsible for arrangements at Gander cannot escape blame for this disgraceful incident, which the Toronto Globe and Mail describes as due to shamefully bad management. They should have known that a crowd would assemble even if only to see the royal plane, and should have taken all steps necessary to keep the sightseers in hand and prevent them from disturbing Her Majesty's rest. That they failed to do so is self-evident from what occurred.

EXAMINATIONS

Sir.—A few evenings ago a titled gentleman gave over the CBC his opinion of the value of examinations in school curricula. He took a very dim view of examinations and intimated that they were outmoded and practically valueless.

As one who has been in close touch with both the old examination period as well as the modern "easy" system of Canadian education, I should like to make a few remarks on the subject.

I resent the frequent sneers and slurs about the harsh treatment of pupils in old-time schools. The stories of canings and other punishments for failure to pass exams and other misdemeanors which are often told, were never a part of Canadian schools and were imported from Britain to serve a purpose.

If examinations are such a useless or harmful thing as the speaker on the radio intimated, why is it that the same radio now clutter up the airwaves of Canada with endless "quiz programs?" Or is it true that the educational field has reversed itself as indicated by one modern parent who explained, "At school they teach my boy to wash his face and hands and when he comes home I teach him to read and write?"

I cannot see what age has to do with the efficacy of any act. The fact that Antigone and Socrates "asked questions" does not impair the value of this method of acquiring knowledge . . .

WALDRON GREENE,

TOLL BRIDGES

Sir.—From letters in The Daily Colonist it would appear that some British Columbians are against toll bridges and toll highways. You need, and how you need, more highways and bridges to open up your beautiful province, and with your increasing industrial expansion this need of as now, is definitely critical.

I wish to call your readers attention to the San Francisco Bay area where we have completely paid for the Oakland Bay Bridge, will soon have the Golden Gate Bridge paid for, and are in the process of constructing the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge which will cost approximately $40,000,000. All these projects were and are being paid for by means of a toll charge. Many examples could be given covering toll bridges and highways in other parts of this and other states.

It should be remembered that not only local traffic but out-of-state users would help to contribute and I do not believe you would find many of the visitors from south of the border objecting to pay their share of the tolls. I would gladly pay my share when I make my annual visit to British Columbia. I have traveled through your beautiful province 27 times and I hope to spend many more vacations there.

Build more bridges and highways quickly. You need them.

BY TOM TAYLOR

I PASSED a manhole the other day and oh dear a dear, the fragrance. It was exquisitely upsetting. It reminded me of . . .

But perhaps I should stop, before it's too late, since this cannot be a very genteel piece, and I might offend you beyond repair.

Alas, however, having begun, how can I?

I really ought to have more sense; because you see, this memory that came back is compounded of smell. Yes, smell. Not odor, nor essence, nor fume, nor emanation, just plain inelegant smell.

Like that which afflicts one when he falls on top of a big, bloated dead-Turk. (Without prejudice to the Turk, of course.)

A graceful theme, in truth, and I will excuse you if you turn at this point to another page.

Twas one black moonless night, only our third in front-line trenches. We choked as the evening air swept down over us from Achi Baba, passing en route many still silent forms. The social baptism, if I may so phrase it, was dreadful.

But I put a mental clothes-pin on my nose as three of us crept meekly over the parapet. We were on a telephone-wire laying mission to a small isolated trench in no-man's land. That's about all I knew, at the time. In those days it was infra dig to bother briefing an acting lance-corporal, unpaid.

So off we go, three neophytes in the arts of war. We fall into holes, lose our way, bury our noses in dirt when a starshell goes up, but finally reach our destination.

There the other two left me.

I can feel my heart spurt yet. They were going to kiss me goodbye, not even kiss the teenager that was myself, and leave me to my fate. I was to sit in the middle of nowhere holding the wire until some blighter arrived with a telephone.

(Now I grow embarrassed.)

It was dark, lonely, and oh so eerie. I hadn't the faintest notion which was front or which was rear. Had I known the Turks were only a scant 100 yards distant, as they were, I'd have given up the ghost. What I did know was that some nights they temporarily occupied this very trench, and that absolutely shivered my timbers.

Was I scared?

At length, though, I got tired holding the line so I wrapped the end round my bayonet handle and stuck the bayonet into the trench wall. Then I slunk into myself. As Lawrence later said of himself, the fitful night dragged over me.

Well, not all night, maybe only half an hour, but time seemed endless. Every faint noise made my heart stand on end. And when I heard voices, and rough swearing voices, I almost swallowed my tonsils.

Their owners were friends, however, some wandering patrol or other, although fearing far from friendly. They had been tripping high, wide and handsomely over my wire, and they didn't like that.

Eventually, though, the bloke with the telephone arrived, along with an occupation platoon that was to take up permanent residence. And then—I couldn't find my bayonet!

Franctically I ran down the trench until I came on the wire, and started to trace it back. It led out of the trench. A fellow in the wandering patrol, I found out afterwards, had caught on the line, dragged the bayonet out of the wall—and thrown it anywhere.

And so it came about that I scrambled over the parapet, or parapets, and fell plump on the aforesaid portly Turk.

Memory, oh memory, please hold the door shut, and I'll never walk close to a manhole again.

International Commentary...

The End of a Chapter

By W. N. EWER, From London

THE invitation to Mr. Molotov to meet with the three "Western" foreign ministers for the discussion of German and Austrian questions is, as the Three Power Note of November 16 says, "still open." But it is only too clear that the Soviet government has no intention of accepting it on any terms that could conceivably be accepted by the others.

So ends a chapter in the story of relations with the Soviet Union. It had opened not unhopefully. There had seemed to be a possibility that the death of Stalin might bring a certain modification of Soviet policy and of the Soviet attitude towards the Western allies. There had seemed a possibility that in a changed atmosphere agreement might be reached on at least some matters that had been the cause of tension. If that could be done it might lead to more. As Sir Winston Churchill said in Parliament on May 11, "a settlement of two or three of our difficulties . . . might lead to an easement in our relations . . . which might open new prospects for the security and prosperity of all nations and every continent."

But that was the vision which inspired the decision last July to propose a Four Power meeting of foreign ministers to deal with German and Austrian questions. But as the exchange of notes went on the vision faded. For it became more and more evident that the Soviet government had no desire for a discussion of German problems. Especially since the June revolt in the East and the Communist debacle in the West German elections, the Soviet government has clearly made up its mind that it would have nothing to gain and much to lose by the reunion of Germany, since a reunited Germany would assuredly be a democratic Germany, associating itself not with the Communist world but with the other free countries of Western Europe.

And, moreover, the tone and language of successive Soviet notes showed that the expectations of a "new look" in Russian policy after Stalin's death had been illusory. So the chapter which opened hopefully in July has ended in November in disappointment.

The Soviet government has not in so many words rejected the Three Power invitation. That would have been too obviously obstructive and negative. Instead, it has adopted the device of ignoring the specific invitation and of putting forward conditions for any meeting of foreign ministers which it could feel entirely sure would be quite unacceptable.

There was an insistence that the first step in Germany must be the formation of a "provisional all-German government" in which East German Communists and West German democrats would join as partners. To this it was known the West Germans would never agree.

There was an insistence that the effort—though not an easy one—to reach a settlement of German problems. But on the first day Mr. Molotov opened up a violent attack, studed with baseless charges against the administration of the British Zone in Germany. It was what the Americans call a keynote speech. For six weeks Mr. Molotov and Mr. Vishinsky kept up an unremitting offensive. The inevitable result was that the conference achieved nothing and that at the end, the atmosphere was far worse than at the beginning.

These Soviet demands are not worth discussing. They were not put forward as serious proposals. They were put forward in order to make the holding of a conference quite impossible.

But there was another Soviet proposal, or rather demand, which needs to be explained. That is the demand that before or at the same time as a Four Power conference on Germany and Austria, there should be a Five Power conference (of the four plus Communist China), to discuss the causes of international tension throughout the world. It needs examination for two reasons. First, because it is, at first sight, a reasonable enough proposal which must have a certain attractiveness for many people. Second, because Communist propaganda is now claiming that it is Allied (and especially American) objection to going into conference with Communist China that is the main obstacle in the way of a serious and, perhaps, fruitful effort to bring about an easing of tension everywhere.

And certainly, if this proposal for a Five Power conference could be regarded as a serious one made in a conciliatory and constructive spirit, it would be one for very serious consideration. The difficulties about the participation of Communist China in such a conference, while the aggression in Korea has not been completely ended by peace and the withdrawal of the Chinese forces, are real ones. But they could perhaps be surmounted if there were reason to believe that this might open a path to hopeful and splendid objectives.

But, unhappily, there is no reason for any such belief. The whole tone of these recent Soviet notes forbids it. They make it only too clear that such a conference would be used by the Communist representatives for violent attacks and for impossible demands. The Soviet notes provide a foretaste of what we should have to expect. The Western Powers would be accused of aggressiveness, of waging merriment, of organizing sabotage, of fostering fascism and persecuting democracy. There would be demands which would, in effect, be that Western Europe, the Middle East and Southern Asia should all be left nearly defenseless and without hope of aid in the event of aggression. It is all prefigured in these notes. It is a method of which we have unhappy memories.

Now there is hardly a family in the land but has one immediate member who has some sort of heart condition and is adapting his or her life to the facts. After we reach 30, it is rare that we haven't got at least one near friend who is obliged to walk solely the rest of his life. As game a newspaperman as I know has angina, and has to carry a little box of nitroglycerin tablets in one pocket and a tiny flask of whisky, unbottled even by his friends, in his hip pocket. At a regimental mess with which I have been connected for years, there is an inglenook corner with easy chairs and a padded bench around it which is known as Thrombosis Corner. Here assemble on mess nights the half dozen old comrades who have had the nod. I was sitting with them last week when a former regimental medical officer, now a famed heart specialist, joined the group and asked them how they were.

They told him. "Here's the best advice I can give," said the old M.O. "Never start anything you have to finish."

He paused to let the curious problem sink in.

"Isn't it simple?" he said. "Never start anything you have to finish. It covers everything, from shaving in the morning to calling on your bank. If you MUST do it, don't do it."

"But, heck," protested one of the old swells, "there are always things you've got to do."

"That's the whole point," said the old M.O. with an ironic grin. "In your case, there are not."

Mr. Gunderson, who reportedly wanted to quit politics when he was defeated in Oak Bay in June, probably will want to get out as soon after the Ottawa conference as possible.

BENNETT MAY DOUBLE

Premier Bennett will then need to find someone to take over the finance portfolio. He may decide to double as finance minister himself, as other premiers have done before him. He might hand the vacant portfolio to one of the other eight cabinet ministers, if he considers any of them capable of handling such a complex job. Or he could elevate one of his 18 backbenchers to the cabinet.

There is even the possibility that he might bring in another financial brain from outside the ranks of elected Soviets to replace Mr. Gunderson. Then there would have to be another by-election. This, however, is a remote possibility.

When the time comes, Premier Bennett may decide on a full-scale cabinet shuffle. Two portfolios actually will be available for distribution: finance and education, which Attorney-General Robert Bonner has been handling since the death of Hon. Tilly Rolston. The premier undoubtedly will meet increasing pressure for the appointment of a full-time education minister.

Age Adjustment Seen For Defense Workers

Easing of the 65-year compulsory retirement age for national defense employees may bring them abreast of employees in outside industry result from a survey to be conducted by departmental officials.

Spokesmen for local employees of the national defense department are keenly interested in yesterday's announcement by Defense Minister Brooke Claxton that his department is considering introduction of the five-day week for civilian prevailing-rate employees in areas where private-industry employ-menters had the story in dramatic style.

JOY OF PEOPLE

James Bryant, 1st vice-president of National Defense Employees' Association, said all hourly paid employees working locally in national defense now have the five-day week.

Mr. Bryant, however, said the Vancouver Island branch of the association is interested in seeing that all such employees on the island have the same working hours.

Other officers named included A. B. Hamilton, president; W. L. Allison, executive vice-president, and W. Hewitt-White, secretary-treasurer.

Resolutions were passed aimed at improving the classifications of many thousands of clerks, stenographers, typists, office appliance operators, waitresses, housemaids, wardmaids, seamstresses and laundry workers.

Mr. Sammon reported that employees as a whole have not yet had time to estimate what their recent salary adjustments will mean and that certain classes will require further negotiation.

He said the majority of classes mentioned so far are satisfied that the government has tried to be fair with them, for the floating population.

Joy, Tragedy of Coventry Cathedral Told

The new cathedral belongs to the whole world as a symbol of the triumph of good over evil," he said in closing.

DESIGN DEFENDED

Mr. Spence, who won the right to build the new cathedral from 600 other architects around the world, defended his modernist design.

"When Coventry Cathedral was originally built it was of modern sound construction of the day. I decided my plan would also be as modern as the age. To design another like the old would have been to build a fake building," he said.

He said he has a great respect for Gothic architecture, so constructed that they cannot be seen until they are reached in a walk to the altar, but on the new cathedral had to be modern.

It is built within the ruins looking back all can be seen of the old, but the altar was as each "age" is passed.

Airwoman Leaving RCAF When Back Pay Received

VANCOUVER (CP) — Airwoman Isobel Burton, just as mysteriously in Victoria last week end and was placed under arrest by the RCMP, Air Force officials dealt with her case swiftly and announced that she would be discharged immediately without court-martial.

Miss Burton was the object of a widespread search after she vanished from the RCAF station at Aylmer, Ont., a year and a half ago. She reappeared just as mysteriously in Victoria last week end and was placed under arrest by the RCMP.

Air Force officials dealt with her case swiftly and announced that she would be discharged immediately without court-martial.

Wing Cmdr. D. S. C. Macdonald in charge of the case, said Miss Burton's back pay and her effects left at Aylmer would be returned before she last week end and was placed under arrest by the RCMP.

Miss Burton "probably has some back pay coming to her since she left before payday."

She will not receive pay for the period she was absent from the RCAF.

Province Offered Ocean Parksite

British Columbia has been offered an ocean parksite adjacent to the sulphur hot springs near Hot Springs Cove on Vancouver Island's West Coast.

Ivan H. Clarke, who owns considerable property on the West Coast, has offered the provincial government 25 acres for use as parkland.

ON SMALL PENINSULA

The parksite and springs are on a small wooded peninsula at the western tip of Sidney Cove.

It is reached by a short trail from Hot Springs Cove settlement.

It faces the open Pacific and consists mainly of virgin timber.

The park, like the hot springs, is a regular port of call for the West Coast steamer.

The springs are used regularly each year by hundreds of fishermen and many Canadian and American yachting parties visit them each year.

ROAD WOULD HELP

If the long sought road to Tofino is built motorists will be able to leave their cars at Tofino and reach the proposed parksite by a 15-mile boat trip.

The trip would take about one and one half hours through inside sheltered waters past other little-known interesting and historical points.

The adjacent hot springs would be one of the chief attractions.

Their unusual location is what makes the springs so unique.

The main outlet is about 100 feet from tidewater.

Bathers experience the unusual sensation of one minute having a hot sulphur bath and the next being cooled off by salt water from the ocean.

FINE VIEW OF SEA

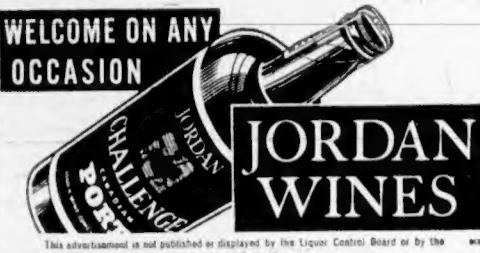

From the proposed parksite and the springs there is an uninterrupted view of the open Pacific.

Next game: Saturday, Montreal at Toronto; Chicago at Detroit

Calum Mackay fired three goals and fed one assist to pace Montreal Canadiens to a 6-3 victory over Chicago in a National Hockey League game Thursday night.

Detroit Red Wings kept pace by blanking Toronto Maple Leafs 2-0, while Boston Bruins thumped New York Rangers 5-2, avenging their 5-3 defeat Wednesday night by the Blue shirts.

Detroit's victory left them in sole possession of second place, which they previously shared with the Leafs. They trail league-leading Montreal by three points.

Mackay's first two goals in the game came within 36 seconds in the second period. The first, as Bill Gadsby served a tripping penalty, occurred at 6:22 when he rammed home Dick Gamble's rebound. Twelve seconds later, Gamble joined Gadsby in the penalty box and at 7:18, Mackay counted again off a pass from the corner by Bernie Geoffrion.

Gus Bodnar, with assists from Bill Mosienko and Al Dewsbury, hit for a Hawk score at 12:10 but at 18:55, with the Chicago team again short handed, Mackay got his third goal after a carry-in by Maurice Richard and Geoffrion.

Mackay, along with Dorell St. Laurent, assisted on a goal by Harvey at 6:12 of the third, with St. Laurent sitting out a penalty. Gadsby, defenseman and Hawks' top scorer, got his eighth goal of the season at 11:52. Rodman and Mosienko assisting.

Gamble for Montreal at 17:10 and George Gee for the Hawks at 19:21 ended the scoring.

BLANKED THREE TIMES

The Detroit victory marked the third straight time this season the Wings have blanked the Leafs in Olympia Stadium. Ted Lindsay and Marcel Pronovost did the scoring.

Terry Sawchuk, Wing goalie, turned aside 23 shots for his third shutout of the season.

A crowd of 13,497, the season's largest, saw the Wings win their ninth home game in 11 starts. They've lost once at home and tied once. The victory gave them a two-point lead on Toronto.

Lindsay clicked at 16:56 of the first period, deflecting in his seventh goal. At 7:36 of the final period, Pronovost and his defense mate, Bob Goldham, broke in on Leaf goalie Harry Lumley and Pronovost beat him with a 10-footer.

Ten penalties were called, including five-minute fighting

Hungary Reaction To Win 'Bit Too Much' for Briton

LONDON (Reuters) — Com-belligantly the tenacious optimist newspapers behind the Iron Curtain crowed Thursday that Hungary's 6-3 soccer victory over England here Wednesday wasn't just an international sport triumph, but a "blow struck at the plans of the warmongers."

A news agency report from Budapest said the win at Wembley Stadium caused national rejoicing in Hungary. Comrades embraced each other in the street when they learned the glad tidings. In a flowing editorial, the newspaper Magyar Nemet claimed that all sport achievements "which are an inspiration to the people are blows dealt at the plans of the warmongers."

The victory in London shows

Mutual Admiration

LONDON (AP) — Dutch referee Leo Horn explained why he kept patting the Hungarians on the back during Wednesday's soccer match against England.

"I did this merely to hurry them up because they were spending too much time kissing each other," he said.

English fans greeted those reports from Hungary with amusement tinged with annoyance.

They were willing to concede that the Hungarian team was the first from continental Europe ever to beat a British squad on home ground, and even that the Communists eleven chalked up a "shockingly high score."

But, as one London truck driver put it: "that stuff about warmongers is rubbing it in a bit too much."

Who Starts at Quarter for Bombers?

will be either Zaleski or Jacobs. Zaleski has been used mostly at offense this season with Jacobs on defense but the Oklahoma Indian came through in great style in final game against Edmonton and may get nod from coach George Trafton.

Jacobs or Zaleski? Controversy Rages

AURORA, Ont. (CP) — Will it be the big, dead-pan Indian or Black Magic Zaleski? How will the winds blow?

Those were a couple of big questions in the minds of foot-ball fans across the country Thursday night as Winnipeg Blue Bombers finished a light drill in preparation for their Saturday Grey Cup final against Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Will coach George Trafton go with Indian Jack Jacobs or Joe Zaleski in the quarterback slot? Trafton is the last fellow who will say much on this point.

"I dunno," Trafton said at not going to fix it so Voyle (Hamilton coach) can pick up any newspaper and read in three minutes what I'm going to do."

About the only injury Trafton must contend with is Lorne Brown, 22-year-old half who is but with a knee injury.

"The other fellows are in fine shape," Trafton added. "We're ready."

HAMILTON BLOWOUT

Meanwhile, Hamilton Tiger-Cats came out of a hush-hush workout Thursday amid reports they would be whisked to a secret hideout before the classic.

Coach Carl Voyle, like Trafton, was keeping mum on his team but did say: "We're going to win Saturday. The Winnipeg line isn't so hot as far as I'm concerned. They haven't been up against tough lines in the Western Conference. That will be the difference."

There are no serious injuries on the team although some players are nursing aches and pains. Only doubtful starter is Cam Fraser, 190-pound end and kicking specialist, who has a lame back, while Bernie Custis and tackle Bob Cross, both injured slightly in the game against Montreal last Sunday, are reported fit and ready.

The ticket situation at Toronto has caused a big stir among fans, many of whom have complained they were "cheated." About 4,500 fans lined up outside the stadium Wednesday night and Thursday in search of tickets but many were turned away when the quota of 4,000 tickets was sold and officials put up the "no more" sign.

BAND IGNORED

Another complaint has come from Winnipeg officials. The city's high-stepping Blue Bomberettes and the city police pipe band are going to take part in the parade but may not get inside Varsity Stadium to see the big game.

Trafton was reported to have told his men Wednesday: "You don't like me. I know that. But you've got a game to play Saturday and you're going to work hard enough to win it."

Officials of the Canadian Rugby Union apparently have declined to let the two groups in unless they have tickets. And there are no tickets.

DR. HARRY GRIFFITH

Former coach of University of Toronto when Blues won Grey Cup in 1909 and 1910, Dr. Harry Griffith will be honored at Grey Cup dinner tonight on the eve of Dominion football championship at Toronto. Griffith played football at Ridley College, St. Catharines, in 1895 and was headmaster at school for 27 years. He will be presented with a plaque for outstanding contribution to development of football in Canada.

Cats Try at Home After Shaky Trip; Royals Lose Again

Royals tried hard to move closer to contention but Stamps went on the defensive to protect their lead.

Pat Lundy wound up the scoring when he grabbed a loose puck in front of the Royal's net and drove it home.

Next game, tonight: Seattle at Victoria; Edmonton at Vancouver.

VICTORIA COUGARS return to Memorial Arena ice tonight, after a disastrous road trip on which they lost two games by shutouts and salvaged a point with Vancouver, when they host Seattle Bombers with fifth place at stake in the Western Hockey League.

Trailing the Bombers by a single point, Victoria can climb into a fourth-place tie with the resurgent Saskatoon Quakers with a victory and be sure of holding their three-point lead over Edmonton, who play at Vancouver in the first game of their second Coast swing.

The TACKLE BOX

BY JIM TANG

Promise of improved weather conditions and better fishing in Saanich Inlet may make this a worthwhile week end for anglers, who have been stymied both by the elements and scarcity of salmon in the past two or three weeks.

This is the time of the year for Saanich Inlet grilse and it appears that the young salmon have shown up. Harry Peard reported from the Anchorage Boathouse yesterday that fishing was showing "definite signs of improvement."

Not too many boats were out from Brentwood Bay but three of them did better than all right. Lance Littlewood scored with a limit catch of jacksprings and grilse; Leo Coulcher and Lionel Dickson shared a catch of 12 jacks and grilse, and Jim Warburton and partner boated 15.

Jacksprings are running about four or five pounds and are taken on the same tackle as grilse. The No. 4 Tom Mac spoon is as good a lure as any and some scores have been made on McKnight spoons and bucktail flies. W. Torrie took a seven-pound spring yesterday, his fourth of the week, on a bucktail fly. Four ounces of weight is the usual amount for spoons and most of the fish in the Brentwood area have been taken between Whittaker's Point and McKenzie Bay. Also worth a try, if past years are any criterion, is the area off Bamerton and Quarry Bay.

At the Goldstream end, Hall's Boathouse reports that hardly anyone has been venturing out in the recent bad weather but that results have been good for those who tried. Kathy Williams, out for a spell yesterday afternoon, brought back five grilse. Only one boat was rented Sunday and it brought back seven grilse.

Small springs and the odd blueback as well as grilse are being taken. The springs are averaging about five and six pounds and most are being taken fairly deep although they have been caught at all depths. Frank Thew took five springs recently and Pat McLean and Fred Curle limited with 10 springs and as many grilse. Most popular fishing area has been from Chesterfield Rock to the "White Lady" and opposite the Stone House. No specific lure seems to have been doing better than others with some scoring on Hookum spoons, others using plugs and other spoons with results just as good.

Improved weather also should bring a last fling at trout, which go out of season after Monday. The most likely spot is the headwaters of the Cowichan River and successful anglers claim that only bottom fishing with red or orange flies or lures resembling salmon eggs produces results. There have been reports of excellent blueback fishing in the Crofton area but doubtless weather has kept fishermen away there, too. At hand are the December issues of Field and Stream and Sports Afield. There is excellent reading in both. In the former are articles of interest on fishing in Florida, goggle fishing, and black bass fishing on the Chassawatka River, which is in Florida, not Czecho-Slovakia. Sports Afield has articles on the type of boat bottom best suited for angling, on tackle, on fishing for shad, called a new Pacific game fish, and on the king mackerel, among others. Washington State anglers have received the good news that steelhead areas have been opened and seasons have been lengthened as much as two months on others. Fishing will start on December 6. An internationally-known fly fisherman has arrived in Vancouver, which he will call home. He is Albert Whillcock from Bristol and he is already on the staff of C. M. Galley. Whillcock is reported to have won in fishing competitions against such as England's Lionel Sweet, Frenchman Pierre Caussant, and Marin Hedge, one of the best fly fishermen in the U.S. Whillcock won the West of England just before he left with a cast of more than 139 feet using a single-handed four-oar rod.

Local Brier Entries Must Be In Saturday

Victoria curlers who would like to compete in the MacDonald Brier playdowns which lead to the Canadian championship have until Saturday night to enter their rinks for zone play-downs.

Deadline date was set earlier this week at a meeting of the Vancouver Island MacDonald Brier zone committee. To be eligible, curlers must be affiliated with the B.C. Curling Association and be a member in good standing of an affiliated club. Entry fee is $10 per rink.

Two rinks will represent Victoria in the zone playdowns, scheduled for Nanaimo in December 16 and 17. If more than two rinks enter from the Victoria Curling Club, a round-robin playoff will be held to decide the two winners. At Nanaimo, the two Victoria rinks will compete against two rinks from Nanaimo, Duncan and nearing completion for the 64 rinks. It will be over by next Wednesday and then rinks will be put into six groups, according to their percentage of victories for competition in the second draw scheduled to start on Monday, December 7. Through Wednesday night's play, the top rink was the one skipped by Tony Guroski, which had won its first 11 games. Each rink plays 13 in the first draw.

Draw for next week's play follows:

MONDAY

Davis Cup Odds Change

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)—Vic Seixas' knee injury and the return to form of Australia's 19-year-old whiz kids have forced a sharp change in the Davis Cup tennis picture in the space of a week.

"After we won at Wimbledon and Forest Hills, everybody thought the Davis Cup was going to be a cinch for us this year," said Bill Talbert, dominating U.S. captain.

"But we realize these kids are not going to be pushovers. The Victoria championships this week and next should show us what chance we have."

Talbert was referring to New Australian hopes and Leslie Head and Ken Rosewall.

Heirs of Car Pioneers Fail To Carry On Work

DETROIT (AP)—David, the grandchildren of the late Buick, Louis Chevrolet, Walter Henry Ford are carrying on the Chrysler and the Dodge huge empire he created on a shoestring 30 years ago. But their heirs have gone from the industry are the families of the men who gave their names to Buick, Chrysler, Dodge, Nash, Hudson, Packard, Studebaker, Willys and Chevrole.

The automobile industry apparently holds little attraction, or has few places, for the families of its famous founders.

Some are absent because their grandparents chose to sell; others have had luck eventually.

their ancestors, and some as a matter of choice. Actually the industry created fewer wealthy families than generally is believed.

David Dunbar Buick died several years ago in a garret, Louis Chevrolet, a French auto racer who built the first car bearing his name, died in obscurity in Detroit. Walter P. Chrysler's family no longer has any part in the administration of Chrysler Corp.

The two Dodge brothers, Horace E. and John F., died in 1920 and 1921, and left huge fortunes, but none of their family chose to stay in the auto business. Charles W. Nash, who was "brought out" as a boy to a farmer for his board and kind, died wealthy.

Hudson got its name from a pioneer Detroit merchant but there are no Hudsons in the Hudson Motor Car Co. today. The Packard and the Studebakers have long since dropped out of the affairs of the companies their forebears founded.

Willys got its name from John North Willys, a one-time salesman who took over the ailing Overland Motor Car Co., and revived it, but he left no members of his family in its councils.

The history of the auto industry is one of cut-throat competition and survival of the strong. Many of the more than 2,500 companies founded over the last half-century lost their identity in mergers and consolidations. Most of them, however, just folded up as expenses outran income.

As early as 1897 there were such cars as Pope-Hartford, Strass and Winton. Later came names like Bachelles, Schramm, Goethimobile, Santos Dumont, Cutting, Southern Six and many others.

Riding with Russell

Gear Changing

And Gas Saving

BY C. RUSSELL

A good rule for any driver to remember is that if he doesn't blow his horn, Gabriel may do to provide the answer.

Recently I've run across considerable publicity to the effect that gasoline can be saved by getting into high gear quickly. The general idea is all right, but quite possibly the brevity of such suggestions may mislead many drivers into overdoing it. Those who pass out these mileage boosting ideas do not for a minute suggest hurrying. As a matter of fact, their method for getting into high "quickly" may result in a slower start than by racing through the gears as so many people do, with or without automatic transmissions. The idea for economy is to put less emphasis on acceleration in the lower gears. By getting into high gear with less lower gear activity there's a chance of improving traffic mileage. In the ease of torque converters the plan has to be varied somewhat because until the car is rolling 25 to 30 miles per hour it isn't in the most economical range.

Q. Why do you advocate oil changes at 1,000 miles rather than the 3,000-mile change recommended by some of the car manufacturers? Wm. K.

A. I will answer this by asking another question? Do you know of any better way to keep the engine clean and to get rid of diluent? In cold weather change every 300 miles.

Q. What is the approximate temperature within a cylinder when it is in process of firing? I have heard this discussed a lot and have already received a variety of opinions. It seems to me that this is important in view of the question as to how well lubricants will stand up? J. N. F.

A. Temperatures run over 3,000 degrees Fahrenheit. Q. How often should brakes be adjusted? H. G. V.

A. You will always note need for taking up the shoe clearances by the fact that the pedal goes lower to the floor and the car doesn't stop as easily as it should. I do not believe we can establish any set rule here because there is not only a wide variation in brake use by different drivers under different driving conditions, but also in the quality of the lining used.

Q. Is there any harm in mixing brands of gasoline? R. F. P.

A. As a general rule there are no special objections, but in a few cases mixing isn't advisable. An illustration would be an instance where a very high compression engine requires a particular brand of premium fuel for best results.

Q. What kind of lubricant is used for swabbing a synthetic rubber inner tube before mounting it in a tire? R. L. M.

A. This is a solution of neutral vegetable oil soap.

Q. How can I remove tar from the car's upholstery? N. J.

A. First step is to moisten the spotted area with one of the volatile cleaners, benzene or white gasoline. Scrape off as much as possible with a dull knife. Then rub lightly with a clean cloth wet with more of the cleaner.

Mr. Russell will answer questions regarding the safe care and operation of your car. Just address him care of The Daily Colonist and enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope for a personal reply. Please confine inquiries to one subject and limit letters to 100 words or less.

MECHANIC JOE SPEAKING

"I am frequently asked at what position with reference to the toe board the brake pedal should be when a car's brakes have been locked as in a panic stop. The answer is simple, although I find that it isn't too well known. Heels should be locked when the pedal is no lower than two inches to the floor.

Some owners think that if the pedal goes lower they merely need more fluid. Others think that the two-inch clearance rule is merely for normal stops and that if the brakes are given an extra job to do the pedal would go lower. It would go lower only if there were leakage in the system or air, and then only on the first push down."

There's nothing like a friend with a car to furnish grist for the mill of this column. Latest was the experience with headlights which kept going on and off. Clearly there was a short circuit somewhere in the wiring, and the intermittent action was due to the circuit breaker which cuts out current when there's an overload from a short and then again completes it's definitely premium quality. Exports dangerous heat and draws in cooler air, while in motion. Easy riding. Gives long mileage.

Obscure Belgian Engineer 'Man Behind the Atom Bomb'

By JOHN GUNTHER

NEW YORK.—SANATORIUMS, hospitals, laboratories, and universities are the scenes where the secret of the atom bomb is being developed. In New York, the New York office of a Belgian engineer, Dr. Georges Lemaire, has been working on the problem of atomic energy. He has been working on the problem of atomic energy for many years, and has made significant contributions to the field of atomic energy. His work has been recognized by the American Physical Society, which has awarded him the Dannie and Hirsch Prize for his work on the development of atomic energy.

Dr. Georges Lemaire, the Belgian engineer, has been working on the problem of atomic energy for many years, and has made significant contributions to the field of atomic energy.

It is the main weapon that an atomic bomb might be made out of uranium. It was of the most critical importance when it comes to atomic power, he said, that no man could get into an area of danger.

It has been produced periodically since 1945. But in those days, it was thought that it would be too dangerous to use it. So it was confined to the possession of more than 1,000 scientists. At the time of the first atomic bomb test, it was believed that it would bring about the end of the world.

It has been produced periodically since 1945. But in those days, it was thought that it would bring about the end of the world.

Recheck Makes No Change

Long job of rechecking 20,000 by-election ballots kept election workers busy all day Thursday, but did not affect result of Tuesday's vote. Recheck was held at request of Finance

Savings Interest To Rise

OTTAWA (CP)—Interest rates on some $8,000,000 Canadian bank savings deposits will climb to 2 per cent on December 1, first change from the current 1½ per cent in 17 years.

The Canadian Bankers' Association announced the increase in Montreal Thursday and said it is "in line with the general firming of money rates."

The increase is being put into effect so that the rate on personal savings accounts will reflect more accurately the general level of interest rates," it said.

Experts here said the boost, affecting more than $50,000,000 in chartered bank deposits, reflects heavier demands and greater earning power of bank loans.

The boost, lifting the rate to the 1936 level, is planned also to reduce the gap between the current 1½ per cent offered by the banks and the 3½ per cent Canadians can get through purchase of Canada Savings Bonds.

Many Canadians are believed to have withdrawn money accumulating in savings accounts to purchase the bonds, though figures on this move are not available.

Generally, however, savings deposits have increased over the years reaching about $5,200,000,000 on Thursday, up from $3,000,000,000 in the last 10 years.

Aside from needed reserves, the banks put this money to work either through investment in various securities or through commercial loans.

With the economy expanding demand for these loans—bearing interest of between 4½ and 6 per cent—has been increasing. Bank loans currently total about $1,800,000,000—a fourfold expansion from about $480,000,000 in 1943.

Bank assets have doubled to $10,400,000,000 from $5,264,000,000.

Council Candidates Hold Opening Rally

BY RAY BAINES

The civic election got under way last night featuring a few new voices, many of the same old issues, the Point Ellice Bridge and Joe North.

The annual reunion of charactors and candidates was held in Victoria West Community Hall with the thunderous voice of chairman Arthur Bishop calling the time.

About 50 persons showed up, many of them Victoria West residents, to cast critical eyes over the line-up of civic aspirants and hear them trade blows.

Mr. North was unusually quiet throughout and confined his "remarks" to a few disapproving grunts. At one point he told Capt. D. J. Proudfoot to "sit down, you're rocking the boat." He cracked heartily at most of the discussion, but had little to add it.

The generally light-hearted air of the meeting disappeared only twice—when Frank Partridge and several friends put aldermanic candidate Elgin Neish on the spot regarding his political beliefs.

HIS OWN BUSINESS

Mr. Neish was first asked directly if he was a member of the LPP party. He replied that civic elections were supposed to be non-partisan and that his political beliefs were his "own business."

Mr. Partridge then asked him what his property qualifications were. He said he owned property on Oak Bay Avenue.

"Is that not the LPP headquarters?" he was asked. He said he rented it and had no control over what it was used for.

"Who do you rent it to?" Mr. Partridge asked.

"Mrs. Doris Blaskey," Mr. Neish said.

Several questions from Victoria West residents were directed at incumbent aldermen Brent Murdoch and William Pintold regarding the Point Ellice Bridge. One man wanted to know "if we are ever going to get a bridge?"

Alderman Pintold told him a new bridge would cost about $600,000 and would be built if the people wanted to approve a $600,000 money by-law.

Missing Man Found After 22-Year Hunt

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A Nashville man who was believed incapable of earning his own living outside his wealthy family's insurance business disappeared in the depths of the depression 22 years ago.

Two days later, his will arrived by mail, postmarked in St. Louis.

Six weeks later the pretty Kentucky girl who had once been his secretary also vanished.

Both Thomas C. Buntin, then 28 and Betty McCuddy, 22, were from well-to-do families but they apparently left with only their tracking. Alexander finally pocket change and the clothes spattered the protruding left ear which showed so plainly in Buntin's picture. Another six months of careful double-checking followed before the company sued for recovery of $31,000 of the insurance fund.

The company said only that it had found Buntin, that he was married, and that he was legally dead.

Reporters from the Nashville Tennessee tracked him down in Orange, Texas.

The middle-aged couple known as Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Palmer admitted they were Buntin and Miss McCuddy.

Mr. and Mrs. Palmer, 50 and 44, the parents of four daughters and two sons, are "highly respected citizens of Orange," the Orange Leader said.

A policeman was sent to their home at the request of Governor Allan Shivers of Texas, who had been asked by Governor Frank Clements of Tennessee to get official confirmation of the couple's identity.

The Tennessean, in a copy-right story, said Buntin left a wife and three sons in Nashville. His wife now is married to Louie Phillips, president of the Broadway National Bank of Nashville.

SOCREDS GIVE UP RECOUNT PLANS

Russia Favors Parley

MOSCOW (CP)—The Soviet Union, in a move that surprised the West, announced tersely today it is prepared to meet Britain, the United States and France in a four-power conference.

Its statement of fewer than 60 words did not say what subjects might be taken up or at how high a personality level the parley might be.

Details were promised in the next text of a note to the three Western powers which will be published in Moscow Saturday.

The bare preliminary announcement was a communiqué circulated by the Soviet news agency Tass, broadcast by Moscow radio and published by the government newspaper Izvestia.

The announcement of Soviet readiness to meet with the Western powers came amid preparations in the West for top-level meetings of Prime Minister Churchill, President Eisenhower and French Premier Joseph Laniel in Bermuda starting December 4.

The Moscow announcement came as a surprise. First it was heard on the Moscow radio by monitors in London. The French foreign office immediately said that was the first word it had, although such announcements usually come to Paris first through the French embassy in Moscow.

Mr. Partridge then asked him what his property qualifications were. He said he owned property on Oak Bay Avenue.

"Is that not the LPP headquarters?" he was asked. He said he rented it and had no control over what it was used for.

"Who do you rent it to?" Mr. Partridge asked.

"Mrs. Doris Blaskey," Mr. Neish said.

Several questions from Victoria West residents were directed at incumbent aldermen Brent Murdoch and William Pintold regarding the Point Ellice Bridge. One man wanted to know "if we are ever going to get a bridge?"

Alderman Pintold told him a new bridge would cost about $600,000 and would be built if the people wanted to approve a $600,000 money by-law.

Bermuda's Royal Visitors

Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh leave Bermuda's Parliament after the Queen addressed the legislative body, the first time a reigning British monarch had done so. Lieut.-Gen. Sir Alexander Hood, governor-general of Britain's oldest self-governing colony, accompanies the Royal couple, who are making a six-month, 30,000-mile Commonwealth tour. The Queen is wearing a blue dress, and Philip is dressed in a white admiral's uniform.—(International Soundphoto.)

There has been no official indication of what the government's next step will be. Premier Bennett could not be reached for comment last night, and Mr. Gunderson, apparently taking his defeat with equanimity, had gone to a movie.

After the movie he had no comment on his plans.

But if, as is indicated, the premier does not plan another by-election, Mr. Gunderson's resignation from the government is expected in a matter of weeks.
